Another year rolls around, and for the fourth time boys and girls representing club members in their respective States assemble for a week in their National Capital with headquarters on the lawn of their Department of Agriculture. The Department of Agriculture is proud to be host to such an outstanding group of young people. Members of the Department staff are eager to show and to tell you what is being done here in the various bureaus to make for an even better rural life than we have today. We have been looking forward for a long time to this opportunity to greet the members of the Fourth National Boys' and Girls' Club Camp. May you have a full week of valuable and happy experiences.

C. W. Warburton,
Director of Extension Work.

GET READY TO GO PLACES

Some of the places of interest to be visited this week will be the Department of Agriculture Experiment Farm at Beltsville, Md.; the Mt. St. Albans Cathedral; Bureau of Engraving and Printing; the Aircraft, Arts and Industries, and Natural History buildings of the Smithsonian Institution; the Washington Monument; the U. S. Department of Agriculture Greenhouses; Mt. Vernon, the home of George Washington; the Department of Agriculture Experiment Farm at Arlington, Va.; the Arlington National Cemetery where America's Unknown Soldier is buried; the Capitol; the White House; the Corcoran Gallery of Art; the Pan American Building; the Lincoln Memorial; and the Library of Congress.

DON'T FORGET

Groups are to elect the "Keeper of the Fields," "Keeper of the Heart," and song leaders, today. Group II is in charge of "Evening Fire" tonight. All groups be ready with challenges. Let's make it a big night.

Camp Director Farrell Says

The program of the camp is arranged for those who move and act quickly and when the bell rings for assembly or campfire or a tour, please respond at once. The busses move on time and do not wait a minute over the scheduled time.

If you have a news assignment, get in touch with the Press Tent and get your write-up in on time.

Well-fitting shoes and well cared for feet are signs of an efficient 4-H club member. If you have a blister starting, see the doctor.

Eat wisely.

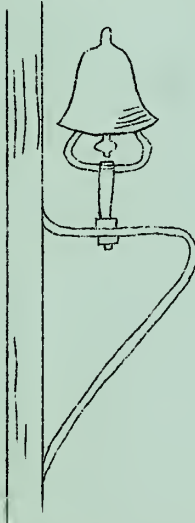

If you haven't written to mother since you arrived at camp, be sure to get that letter off today.

Keep your notebook up. You may want to refer to it when you get home.

Write and tell your home club about the radio broadcast Monday night.

Don't make the mistake of staying with one or two associates the whole week. Get acquainted with a new group every morning and every afternoon.

We have arranged to have the laundryman call at the Registration Tent every morning at 7:30. You can have special 24-hour service if you want it.

. . . . .

This is the first camp that we have had the ship's bell which will call you together at the camp for assemblies, tours, and other activities of the week. This is a navy yacht's bell and comes to us from the Navy Yard.

. . . . .

Radio talks by club members representing the four corners of the United States will be given over the N.B.C. network Thursday at 1:10 p.m. Helen Giberson, of Washington; Norman K. Smith, of Maine; Guilda Yates, of Florida; and Austin Brooks, of New Mexico, are the speakers.
